Live chat

with a Dietitian— 5 July 2022, 1-2pm

Dietitians translate the science of nutrition into everyday information about food and advise people on their food and nutrition choices.

Dietitians are part of the Allied Health Professionals family and assess, diagnose and treat dietary and nutritional problems. Dietitians translate scientific and medical research related to food and health into practical guidance for the general public. Dietitians work in hospitals or in the community and with individuals and communities with both healthy and sick people.

Dietitian will share with you:

- Their career journey
- The best bits and challenging parts of the role
- The grades and experience needed
- Time for Q&A
